His Pa Plays Jokes.

Peck's Sun.

"Say, do you think a little practical joke does any hurt, asked the bad boy of the grocery man, as he came in with his Sunday suit on, and a bouquet in his button-hole, and pried off a couple of figs from a new box that had been just opened.

"No, sir." said the groceryman, as he licked off the syrup that dripped from a quart measure, from which he had been filling a jug. "I hold that a man that gets mad at a practical joke, that is one that does not injure him, is a fool, and he ought to be shunned by all decent people. That's a nice bouquet you have in your coat. What is it, pansies? Let me smell of it," and the grocery man bent over in front of the boy to take a whiff at the bouquet. As he did so a stream of water shot out of the innocent looking bouquet and struck him full in the face, and ran down over his shirt, and the grocery man yelled murder, and fell over a barrel of axe helves and scythe snaths, and then groped around for a towel to wipe his face.

"You condum skunk," said the grocery man to the boy, as he took up an axe helve and started for him, "what kind of a goblasted squirt gun you got there? I will maul you by thunder," and he rolled up his shirt sleeves.

"There, keep your temper. I took a test vote of you on the subject of practical jokes, before the machine began to play upon the conflagration that was raging on your whisky nose, and you said a man that would get mad at a joke was a fool and now I know it. Here, let me show it to you. There is a rubber hose runs from the bouquet, inside my coat to my pants pocket. and there is a bulb of rubber that holds about half a pint, and when a feller smells of the posy, I squeeze the bulb, and you see the result. It's fun, where you don't squirt it on a person that gets mad."

The grocery man said he would give the boy half a pounds of figs if he would lend the bouquet to him for half an hour to play it on a customer, and the boy fixed it on the grocery man, and turned the nozzle so it would squirt right back into the grocery man's face. He tried it on the first customer that come in, and got it right in his own face, and then the bulb in his pants pocket got to leaking and the rest of the wafer ran down the grocery man's trouser's leg, and he gave it up in disgust, and handed it back to the boy. "How was it that your pa had to be carried home from the sociable in a hack the other night," asked the grocery man as he stood close to the stove so his pants leg would dry. "He has not got to drinking again, has he?"

"O, no," said the boy, as he filled the bulb with vinegar, to practice on his chum. "It was this bouquet that got pa into the trouble. You see, I got pa to smell of it, and I just filled him chuck full of water. He got mad and called me all kinds of names, and said I was no good on earth, and I would fetch up in a state's prison, and then he wanted to borrow it to wear to the sociable. He said he would have more fun than you could shake a stick at, and I asked him if he didn't think he would fetch up in state's prison, and he said it was different with a man. He said when a man played a joke there was a certain dignity about it that was lacking in a boy. So I lent it to him, and we all went to the sociable in the basement of the church. I never see pa more kitteny than he was that night. He filled the bulb with ice water, and and the first one he got to smell of his button-hole bouquet was an old maid who thinks pa is a heathen, but she likes to be made something of by anybody that wears pants, and when pa sidled up to her and began talking about what a great work the Christian wimmen of the land were doing in educating the heathen, she felt real good, and then she noticed pa's posy in his button-hole and she touched it, and then reached over her beak to smell of it. Pa he squeezed the bulb, and about half a tea cup full of water struck her right in the nose, and some of it went into her strangle place, and, O, my, didn't she yell. The sisters gathered around her, and they said her face was all perspiration, and the paint was coming off, and they took her in the kitchen, and she told them pa had slapped her with a dish of ice cream, and the wimmen told the minister and the deacons, and they went to pa for a explanation, and pa told them it was not so, and the minister got interested and got near pa, and pa let the water go at him, and hit him on the eye, and then a deacon got a dose, and pa laughed, and then the minister, who used to go to college and be a hazer, and box, he got mad and squared off and hit pa three times right by the eye, and one of the deacons he kicked pa, and pa got mad and said he could clean out the whole shebang, and began to pull off his coat, when they bounded him out doors, and ma got mad to see pa abused, and she left the sociable, and I had to stay and eat ice cream and things for the whole family. Pa says that settles it with him. He says they haven't got any more Christian charity in that church than they have got in a tannery. His eyes was just getting over being black from the sparring lessons, and now he has got to go through the oysters and beefsteak cure again. He says it is all owing to me."

"Well, what has all this to do with your putting up signs in front of my store 'Rotten eggs' and 'Frowy Butter a specialty,' said the grocery man as he took the boy by the ear and pulled him around. "You have got an idea you are smart, and I want you to keep away from here. The next time I catch you in here I shall call the police and have you pulled. Now git."

The boy pushed his ear back on the side of his head where it belonged, took out a cigarette and lit it, and after puffing smoke in the face of the grocery cat that was sleeping on the cover to the sugar barrel, he said, "If I was a provision pirate, that never sold anything but what was spoiled so it couldn't be sold in a first-class store, who cheated in weights and measures, who bought only wormy figs and decayed codfish, who got his butter from a fat rendering establishment, his cider from a vinegar factory, and his sugar from a glucose factory, I would not insult the son of one of the first families. Why, sir, I could go out on the corner, and when I saw customers coming here I could tell a story that would turn their stomachs, and send them to the grocery on the next corner. Suppose I should tell that the cat sleeps in the dried apple barrel, that the mice made nests in the prune box, and rats run riot through the raisins, and that you never wash your hands except on Decoration day and Christmas, that you wipe your nose on your shirt-sleeves, and that you have the itch, do you think your business would be improved? Suppose I should tell the customers that you buy sour kraut of a wooden-shoe Polacker, who makes it of pieces of cabbage that he gets by gathering swill, and you sell that stuff to respectable people, could you pay your rent? If I should tell them that you put lozenges in the collection plate at church, and charge the minister forty cents a pound for oleomargarine, you would have to close up. Old man, I am onto you, and now you apologize for pulling my ear."

The grocery man turned pale during the recital, and finally said the bad boy was one of the best little fellows in this town, and the boy went out and hung up a sign in front, "Girl wanted to Cook."

Bright's Disease, Diabetes.

Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious Kidney, Urinary or Liver Diseases, as they only relieve for a time and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of disease so effectually that it never returns.

A Secret Marriage.

Louisville Commercial.

Two highly respected families in this city were thrown into considerable excitement Monday night by the discovery that a secret marriage had been solemnized over six months ago between the daughter of one and son of the other. The parties are Miss Florence Carter, daughter of Mr. T. S. Carter, East Third street, and Wilbur Leach, son of Mr. S. B. Leach, East Main street. The young couple had been in each other's society a good deal, and moved in the best circles, and so far as known there was no opposition to their union. From some inexplicable cause the young lovers quietly visited the study of Rev. J. W. Clokey on the night of July 15th last, when they were united in marriage. After the ceremony doubtless followed by an injunction of secrecy, the bride and groom returned to the residence of Mr. Carter and separated. From that day to this they lived at their respective homes, neither breathing a word of the marriage to any one. Mr. Leach of course called frequently at the residence of Mr. Carter, spending the evening, as lovers usually do, retiring to his home at the usual hour. This secret of course was known to the county clerk, and Rev. J. W. Clokey, but, it appears, neither breathed it. Monday night the facts related above were unfolded to Mrs. Carter by her daughter, and, as may be imagined, produced some amazement, but it is probable the temporary excitement will give way to the usual forgiveness and "bless you my children."

Useless Fright.

To worry about any Liver, Kidney or Urinary Trouble, especially Brights Diseases or Diabetes, as Hop Bitters never fails of a cure where a cure is possible. We know this.

The Indians in Nevada catch quail by scattering wheat soaked in alcohol on the ground. This the birds eat greedily, and speedily become staggering drunk. They are then easily caught and killed. This practice has given rise to the report that the Indians killed quail with poisoned wheat, but it is pronounced untrue. The only poison used is alcohol. The Indians in this way get large numbers of birds for the market.

A WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

What a Lady of Great Prominence Has to Say About Her Sex.

Boston Globe.

On a recent trip by a representative of this paper to the city of Haverhill, Mass., a most important incident occurred, which cannot fail to be of the greatest interest to all, and especially to our lady readers. The newspaper man met a lady a trifle past middle age with luxurious white hair, that contrasted strikingly with piercing black eyes. She possessed a straight, full habit, womanly, but commanding, combined with manners wholly lady-like, and yet pronounced. Any acute judge of human nature could see at once that he was in the presence of an unusual personage—one destined to accomplish more than most of her sex, and to exert an influence far reaching in its power. This lady was Mrs. M. W. Wingate. Almost from childhood she has taken special interest in the bodily troubles of her sex and has probably been more successful in relieving suffering and saving lives than any other woman in America. Indeed, she seems to have been to women what Florence Nightengate and Dorithy Dix were to the suffering soldiers. The instances of women who were in the greatest agony and apparently beyond the reach of human aid, that she has restored to health and happiness, are almost innumerable, and it was only natural that the scribe should become especially interested and wish to converse with her more in detail.

"How long have you been engaged in the practice of medicine, Mrs. Wingate?"

"For more than twenty-five years."

"A long time certainly. How did you happen to enter the field at that early day when women in the professions were specially frowned down upon?"

"I think I must have inherited a taste from my father, Professor J. C. Wood, of Harvard college. He was eminent in the profession, a hard worker and equally earnest in his recreations. He hunted considerably and I remember when only nine years old I used to dissect the birds and animals he had killed. I felt infatuated with medical science, even then and the infatuation has continued up to the present time."

"And did you begin your studies so early in life?"

"I can hardly say when I began, for I cannot remember when I did not read medical literature. You would scarcely believe it, but I was a slender girl and did not weigh over 120 pounds, but I used to sit up night after night until 2 o'clock in the morning poring over my studies and never dreaming of the flight of time. It seemed as though calls for my attendance on the sick always came unsolicited. I certainly cannot fix the date when I first commenced practicing. Of course most of my patients were women, and the natural sympathy I felt for my sex has increased during all these years where I have been brought so closely in contact with them and have learned to anticipate their needs and sympathize with their sufferings. After the opening of the Boston Medical College I appeared before the faculty; passed examination and received a diploma. I had practiced for years previous to that time but thought it desirable to receive another diploma, which I did without an effort."

"Your experience with the many and serious diseases of women having been so extensive must also be valuable? Can you give me some facts regarding them?"

"I find that woman seems born to suffering, and where she avoids it, it is by reason of some care on her part or owing to some special renewing power. It is true some women go through life without unusual suffering, but they are none the less in danger, for there are critical periods all along their pathway when the utmost precaution is required. The innumerable complaints called female weaknesses; the irregularities of life and changes of the system all indicate the perils which hang over every woman's career, and which, unless attended to, may result disastrously."

"But is there no way by which these terrible troubles can be avoided?"

"That has been the problem for years. The habits of life and the demands of fashion are clearly at war with the health of women. I have been, perhaps unusually successful in my treatment of their troubles, but there have been many cases that seemed specially stubborn. I recall one in particular. I had exhausted all the usual expedients and the results were not satisfactory. I became worried over the case and really did not know what to do, but finally thought I would try something out of the usual line. I had heard a certain remedy recommended very highly and so I procured some and made a chemical analysis of it. I found it was perfectly pure, and that the ingredients were unusually valuable. So I began giving it to my patient, changing it, however, into a bottle of my own. To my great joy it seemed to have an almost immediate effect and a complete cure was the result. Since then I have used it constantly in my practice and have cured every form of female weakness, as well as displacements, dropsical tumors, cellu dropsy and all such troubles. I have also used it with the best of results in pregnancy and gestation. Indeed, I have found it of untold value and benefit."

"Have you any objection to giving me the name of this remedy of which you speak?"

"None whatever. It was Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure."

"Why that is a proprietary medicine!"

"Certainly, but what of that? I have but one end in view in the treatment of my patients, namely—their restoration to health. In the accomplishment of this end I prescribe what I believe to be beneficial, no matter what the professional consequences may be."

"I notice in the New York papers that Doctors Hammond, Agnew and other prominent physicians are taking a similar stand, Mrs. Wingate."

"Yes, and all the independent thinkers in the profession are bound to do so. I am, however, on the best of terms with my professional brethren as you can see," and the lady produced a beautiful gold medal

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Mar. 17, 1883

Statesmen have been taking their flight from Washington every day since Congress adjourned until now few are left. Many of the departed are gentlemen of great weight, but as President Lincoln once remarked concerning a delegation of heavy men from a certain metropolis who called on him, "the district does not tip up as they move away." Some of them will be back in the fall, but more will conclude that private interests demand undivided attention in their townships. As usual the closing scenes of the Congressional session, so far as the house was concerned, were unproarious and noisy. The proverbial willingness of the house to be amused was amply illustrated by the peals of laughter that greeted even the feeblest attempts at wit and humor. The antagonism to the whisky bill and a resolution to admit a colored man to a seat to which he laid claim afforded infinite amusement to the house of representatives, loud guffaws greeting the frequent sallies of alleged wit which the deadlock provoked. In the midst of this wild legislative orgie, was brought the news of Alexander H. Stephen's death, and the customary resolutions honoring his memory. Then there was more laughter and jocoseness, and the platitudes of Speaker Kelfer fell like lead upon the over stimulated hilarity of the occasion. The senate, more deliberative, dignified and sedate in manner, adjourned decorously and without confusion. The demise of Congress is no great slight. It is witnessed once in every two years. Nevertheless, this event, as often before, was an occasion for the thronging of the capitol by a vast multitude of Washington people who devoured with greedy ears and eyes everything that was said and done. One of the happiest thoughts in connection with the departure of Congress is that the country is rid of Kelfer, the instrument placed in the speaker's chair through a corrupt bargain between Roheson, Don Cameron and the administration. It will be a long time before another of his coarse and contemptible qualities occupies the position he has disgraced.

During the Congress whose existence has just now terminated, 10,670 bills and joint resolutions have been introduced, of which 8,018 originated in the house and 2,652 in the senate It is hardly necessary to say that a large majority of these measures have fallen stillborn. The greater proportion of them remain with the committees to which they were respectively referred. Of the bills reported to the two houses of Congress, the larger part remained on the calendars when the session ended. These are dead beyond resurrection. During the session just now concluded 1,189 bills and joint resolutions were introduced; and it may give the casual observer some notion of the proportion which schemes of law bear to accomplished legislation to learn that only 163 of this number passed both houses and received the signature of the President. A great many important bills have failed, being left in various stages of completion. Among these are the French spollation claims bill; the bill to limit the coinage of the silver dollar; declaring forfeited certain railroad land grants; the bankruptcy bill; the Nicaragua canal bill; the whiskey bonded warehouse bill: the "Dingley" shipping bill; the river and harbor appropriation; the bill to place Gen. Grant on the retired list; and the bill providing for the performance of the Presidential duties in case of the vacancy of the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States. This is a formidable but very incomplete list.

Of all the legislative bodies in the world the United States senate is the most exacting of its members as to their deportment. Its standard of dignity is of the very highest, and the senator who fails to maintain it is, unless he is too thick-skinned to feel anything, made to feel his unworthiness; but he who is guilty of an infraction of that dignity commits the unpardonable sin and shrivels beneath scorching contempt. A certain western senator, whose greatness was achieved, it is alleged, by a liberal expenditure of the fruit of silver mines, has failed utterly in all that senatorial etiquette exacted of him. His new dignity fitted him as loosely as a $250 night shirt would a walking cane. He carried his free and easy border airs into that chamber sacred to dignity and deportment and, unfortunately for him, his term of service was too short for him to learn lessons of senatorial conduct. At the last night session before adjournment he shocked the senate by going from desk to desk and requesting his brother senators to enter their signatures in an autograph album. This is a duty that the senator who appreciates his elevated position intrusts to a page. He would never profane his high office by making such an undignified spectacle of himself. But the new senator seemed bent upon trampling upon senatorial decorum. His wife, a bride of a few hours, occupied a seat in one of the galleries, and this senator, in the pride of possession, thought there was nothing improp-

Enforcing the Rules.

From the Nashville World we learn how impudent colored passengers are treated on the St. Louis and Southeastern Railroad. A few days ago the morning passenger train on that road was boarded at Henderson by a young colored woman who held a first-class passage. One of the train men told the woman when she boarded the train that the forward coach was the one for colored people, but she replied that she could read and write and had studied grammar and history and that she knew as much about the laws of the land as he did. She said she had a first-class ticket and would accept none other than first-class passage. The train men, without any further objection admitted her to the ladies' coach, where she seated herself. At Earlington the train was boarded by two well-dressed colored men, who held tickets for first-class passage. They also were permitted to take seats in the ladies' coach. When the train reached Crofton three or four young white men got on. Shortly after they entered the car they noticed the colored folks sitting a few seats distant. One of the young men went to one of the train men and requested that the colored folks be made to go into the car which was appropriated for their use. The train man replied that he was powerless to do anything, as the rules of the company were such that all persons holding first-class tickets must be accorded what their tickets called for. Upon receiving this information the young man returned to his friends, and after a short consultation they all arose and repaired to where the colored trio were seated, and requested them to vacate the car, but they strenuously objected, and positively refused to move.

But the young men were determined they should go, so seizing hold of the two colored men they kicked them out of the ladies' coach and made them go to the car allotted to colored people. The colored woman, seeing how things were progressing, got up and followed the men into the next car, where she stayed until she completed her journey. But the colored men were so offended that they got off at Kelly's Station which was the first stop the

Had he done this quietly and in a sort of a casual way, the exuberance of his joy might partially have excused him in senatorial eyes; but he pointed out the beautiful wife with ostentation and a degree of familiarity that the senate could never pardon. Colonel Thomas L. Jones and the Gubernatorial Race.

Owen County (Ky.) Democrat.

We have never, since we had the control of a Democratic organ, said ought against a Democratic aspirant who proposed to submit his claims to the arbitrament of his party; because we do not think it right or just for a party Journal to do so.

We have now three, certainly, and probably four prominent and distinguished gentlemen, whose names will be presented to the next Democratic convention for the high and exalted office of Governor of this grand old Commonwealth; either one of whom would make, in our judgment, an Executive officer, of whom the State would be proud; but we have on more than one occasion been asked why we were so earnestly in favor of Col. Thos. L. Jones, for that position, and we deem it proper for us to answer our friends' interrogatory, which we now proceed to do.

In the first place we will say that we formed a fondness for him in the dark days of 1862, within the walls of a Federal bastile, known as Camp Chase Prison on the Northern side of the Ohio river. Fellow sufferers together, we soon became on terms of intimacy. Col. Jones, being a man of wealth, possessed by few of the incarcerated thousands of Confederate soldiers and Southern sympathizers, with whom he daily mingled, furnished, or caused to be furnished, the poor sick, suffering and dying inmates of the Hospital many delicacies and other things of which they stood so much in need; and not only this he spent nearly one half of his time in looking after them, and seeing that their wants were attended to, and their every wish gratified.

For these philanthropic acts of his, he endeared himself not only to us but to every man within the gloomy wall of that prison.

Could those who were the recipients of his bounty and womanly kindness, from every part of the sunny South, decide who should be the next Governor for Kentucky, they would say with one universal acclaim, that man should be the good Samaritan from Newport, that elegant and exemplary gentleman whose name heads this article.

In the second place Col. Jones' ability and habits of life qualify him to adorn any position on earth, and we are satisfied that his administration would go down in history as one of the best and most brilliant of any that had ever proceeded it.

Thirdly and lastly Col. Jones has, for the last quarter of a century, done more gratuitous work for the Democratic party than any man in the State and unless the Democracy of the State are ungrateful they will exemplify their gratitude by nominating and electing him to the highest office within their gift.

GENTLEMEN:—

Your "call" upon me to become a candidate for the Senate, which appears in the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN of this date lies before me.

For me to say that I do not feel honored and gratified thereby would be for me to belie my nature and human nature. Without unnecessary circumlocution, I respond in the affirmative to your call, subject, as a matter of course, to the decision of a district convention, should one be held. Should it be the will of the people of Hopkins and Christian, as expressed at the polls for me to represent them in a body so high and honorable as the Senate of Kentucky, I can promise them that I will serve them faithfully and honestly, and while, perhaps, I may write no brilliant page on the historic records of the State, I can assure you gentlemen, my immediate sponsors, that no voluntary act of mine shall cause you to hang your heads in shame.

Respectfully Yours,

AUSTIN PEAY.

In a number of the counties of the State the Democrats have already nominated their candidates for the Legislature. It is to be hoped that good men will be chosen everywhere and that all of the counties lost by the Democrats two years ago may be redeemed. Let every county and district put out a good man, on a sound platform, and then let Democrats go to work to wipe out the Republican party in the state of Kentucky.

A new Telephone has been invented which is said to be superior in every respect to the Bell Telephone, and is no infringement on that patent. A company has been organized in New York and Chicago, and an exchange will soon be established in Cincinnati. Several professional gentlemen of Covington have tested the new Telephone, and say that it will certainly supersede the Bell instrument.—Covington Commonwealth.

We notice from the Madisonville Times that Hon. J. Proctor Knott is not expected to live until next May, at least we should judge so from the following local:

Col. Thos. L. Jones, the next Governor of Kentucky, was in town last Friday.

Our contemporary must be mistaken as Mr. Knott was enjoying the best of health when last heard from.

"That was a criminal offense," remarked Blifkins as he saw a young lady fall at a skating rink.

"What do you mean, you son of a tooth-pick?" replied the girl's big brother, who overheard the remark, as he started towards Blifkins with fire in his eye.

"Stop madman, stay thy hand! Hear me for my cause, and be silent that you may hear; with all respect to your sister, didn't you see it was a case of fell-on-knee?"

John Jacobs, of Caseyville, Ills., is the latest fool who has been allowed to run at large too long. He pointed an unloaded (?) gun at Miss Catherine Edwards, a young lady eighteen years old, and as usual the gun went off and the girl was instantly killed, to the "surprise and horror of Jacobs".

The official count of the votes in the Democratic primary election in Mason county to nominate a candidate for the Legislature gave J. D. Kehoe a majority of 2 over A. P. Gooding. Kehoe was a member of the last Legislature and is a bright young fellow.

The Turnpike Commission Meets.

Resolved, That the Board of Turnpike Commissioners of Christian Co. Ky., being fully organized and having taken such initiatory steps as their duty requires, with the view of carrying out the point provisioned of the law, and also that people living in the proposed road district may have all the light and information for their guidance before they may be called upon to vote on the question of building roads, respectfully ask the publishers of the Kentucky New Era and South Kentuckian to publish in a conspicuous place in their papers, the law (or the Free Turnpike Bill) as passed by the Legislature of Kentucky.

Resolved, That the Secretary be authorized to send a copy of these resolutions to each of the Hopkinsville papers for publication.

W. S. CHEATHAM, Sec.

Turnpike Question.

When will the turnpike tax question be submitted to a vote of the people has been an inquiry among all classes for several months past. The blundering management of the commission in not having the Bill published and properly presented to the people of the road district seems to us to be inexcusable. Many of those who opposed it last year, are now found among its most earnest advocates. The railroad phantom which destracted the minds of many of our best citizens in the southern and western portions of the county, has vanished, and they are now looking for some practical plan that will give them an outlet for their produce. The subtle humbug—that of building a railroad from Clarksville through Christian, Trigg and other counties of Kentucky—has collapsed and a few of its advocates forming a forlorn hope, affecting to be undaunted by failure are now doing the wind work for a railroad from Clarksville to Wallouia. This we regard as the joke of the season, and such flimsy schemes may paralyze to some extent, as they are intended, our efforts to build free turnpike roads in Christian county, but the universal sentiment among our people is that something must be done, and we believe it to be a foregone conclusion that when the free turnpike Bill is presented to the people, the tax will be voted. It may not be advisable to submit the question until next winter, but the restless disposition of those who live in neighborhoods most distant, and least accessible to the railroad indicate clearly that some action must be taken. The western portion of Christian stands almost as a unit for the tax, and so determined are they, that a sufficient bonus has been subscribed and the Cadiz road, to Summers' lane partly under contract, and the grading actually begun. A committee appointed by a meeting of the citizens of west Christian at McGehee's store on last Saturday, will canvass for means to extend the road to the Trigg county line and it is confidently expected that a bonus will be raised that will induce a stock company to build the road.

The people of eastern Trigg and western Christian are fully sensible of the importance of this road, and Hopkinsville should, and doubtless will strike with all her might. Will we appreciate the mighty volume of business that will flow into our city from Trigg county? The merchant, the mechanic, the property-holder, and in fact every one who has an interest in the community, or along the line of the road, will see at once the importance of prompt action.

Build turnpikes and concentrate produce in Hopkinsville—patronizing our home market where the farmer can see, and have a voice in the sale of tobacco, wheat and other crops, and leave it to capitalists to build railroads, which they will most assuredly do, when our accummulated freights justify. H.

Esq. Peay's Acceptance.

As will be seen elsewhere in this issue, Esq. Austin Peay, of Garrettsburg has accepted a call made upon him to represent this, the Sixth district, in the next State Senate. Esq. Peay needs no fulsome eulogy at our hands. He is known all over the county as a gentleman of learning, ability and unusual popularity, in every way qualified to make a senator of whom the district might justly be proud. He made the race for the legislature in 1881 against Breathitt, the Republican nominee, and reduced the Republican majority in the county from the usual 900 to 224 votes. He will poll the full strength of the Democratic party, and will we believe, carry this county over any man that may be brought forward by the Republicans. Hopkins county, when her Democracy is united, gives a Democratic majority of from 400 to 600, and as all local dissentions have been healed in that county, the election of Esq. Peay is almost assured beyond a doubt. We understand from the Republicans here that Mr. Pratt will not be a candidate again, and some of the most prominent Republicans in this county say that it is more than probable that Peay will have no opposition. Whether this may be the case or not, he can and will be elected. He is the man of all men in the county to make the race, and will receive the unanimous endorsement of his party in this county and, as Hopkins has no candidate, of the district. He has not sought the office, but has been called out by his fellow citizens, who recognize in him the man who can redeem the district from Republican representation.

A friend of Col. Jones, gives a list of the counties his candidate expects to carry in the May convention and the vote foots up 381 or eleven more than enough to nominate on the first ballot. Five of the eight counties in this district—Daviess, Hopkins, McLean, Henderson and Webster—are modestly claimed for Col. Jones, but Messrs Knott and Owsley are magnanimously conceded their own counties. Wonder if Col. Jones' friend has any "stipendiary emoluments," as Mr. Micawber would say, to back his judgment that the Campbell county candidate will be nominated on the first ballot.

WON AT LAST.

A Story for Young Men.

"Is there nothing I can do to win your love?"

It was evening, or to put it a little stronger it was night. The lamplighter had just completed his rounds to extinguish the street-lamps and the moon in all her gorgeous splendor had just rolled up above the eastern horizon and the solitary specimen of the genus homo who is said to inhabit the aforesaid nocturnal luminary doubtless smiled upon the scene he beheld at the doorstep of a Kentucky home. A young man was just in the act of leaving the presence of his owness own. He had just consulted his watch and finding that tomorrow had arrived, he had nerved himself to the task of tearing himself away. He reached the door-step and paused. He had come there for an object and he had not succeeded in accomplishing it. Hour after hour he had poured out his soul in vain pleading and implored the fair and fickle object of his adoration to turn a willing ear to his impassioned protestations of undying affection and promise to take the contract to sew on buttons and spend his wages for him in the years to come.

She had remained inexorable and when the hour for departing came he was further than ever from the accomplishment of the object for which his heart yearned. He realized that all his promises of eternal love, future wealth, blissful happiness and a diamond ring had failed to gain her heart and his last opportunity was slipping forever from his grasp. Tomorrow she would leave on a long visit to a distant state and unless he could win her now he would never gambol in the sunlight of her love, but would have to fall back broken hearted on the keno room. Slowly he withdrew, but ere he descended the steps he turned to cast one more imploring look and in a voice full of emotion he asked once again, "and is there nothing I can do to win your love?"

"Yes."

"There is, you say? What is it? In Heaven's name, what it it?" exclaimed the now hopeful lover as he turned and clutched the door knob to keep from falling as the exuberant ecstacy of his feelings overcame him and made him dizzy with a delightful sensation of long deferred hopes about to be realized. Is it a diamond ring I am to buy or—"no, no" she interrupted, "these are trifles and will not save you."

"Then what must I do to be saved?"

And as she nestled her head confidingly upon his shoulder and looked up into his eyes, the answer came—"you must go to the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN office and have the paper sent to me and give me the ticket in the drawing."

"Those Pretty St. George Girls," now in press and shortly to be issued by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, treats of fashionable life in Loudon, picturing the details of a London "season," with its aristocratic flirtations, followed by sketches of life of the English Nobility, and those associated with them at the centers of English fashionable life on the continent. Glimpses of London Clubs and Club men, also an exciting fox hunt, and the races at Ascot give variety to the development of the story, in which, of course, there is an element of true love, to which fashionable follies serve as the foil. The dialogue is exceedingly brilliant and witty. The author of the story is a lady of prominence in New York Society.

THE ONLY COLLEGE IN THE SOUTH.

The only College that has regular lines running from the College to give students practical line work.

SPECIAL SUMMER RATES.

In order to convince the public that Telegraphing is and will not alone in be successfully taught we have fixed our rates for the summer as follows: Payable in installments monthly in advance:

FIRST MONTH $30. SECOND MONTH $10 THIRD MONTH $10. FOURTH MONTH $11.

Should the student not be proficient at the expiration of the 3rd or 4th months he or she is in no case required to pay over the $50 as in the installments above stated; but there is no reason why a student should not become proficient in that time at the farthest, with the assistance of a teacher, an old practical operator, in both Railroad and Commercial business. We have in connection with our College one line completed and working daily, and in a few days will have completed other lines to different parts of the city, thereby giving our students the advantage of practical line work, and with all these superior facilities and the simplicity of telegraphing. No student should be longer than 4 months learning the business. We have adopted this plan in order to stimulate our students and cause them to push themselves and get through quicker than they would perhaps by adopting other plans and the student save money. There is a constant demand for operators, both in our immediate vicinity and out west.

COURT NEWS.

Mr. Ed. T. Campbell, having been examined and found qualified, was sworn in as an attorney.

Julius Oncie, a butcher of this city, was tried and acquitted of a charge of stealing a cow.

The Major case is set for Monday, and the Williams and Burnett murder cases for Wednesday and Thursday, respectively.

The second week of circuit court was devoted entirely to civil cases and nothing of interest was done. Next week, however, promises to be more interesting as most of the important cases will come up then.

DIED.

Hord: At his residence near Casky, in this county, Sunday, March 11th, 1883, of apoplexy, Mr. R. H. Hord, in the 60th year of his age. Mr. Hord was a native of this county and was a man esteemed and respected by those with whom he came in contact. He was a member of the Baptist church and lived a consistent, christian life. He leaves a wife and two children.

Greenback Mass Meeting.

The Greenbackers of Christian county are requested to assemble in mass convention at the Court house, in Hopkinsville, at 1 o'clock P. M., Monday, April 2, 1883, for the purpose of attending to matters of importance.

The front of the Howe building is the handsomest in the city. It is now rapidly nearing completion.

Mr. N. L. Baker, of Lexington, Ky., formerly of this city, was married a few days since to Miss Mattie Ramsey, of Trenton, Ky.

The members of Co. D. are requested to meet at the armory to-morrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. By order of the captain.

The rain of yesterday was needed to lay the dust which was very disagreeable.

The addition which will be made to the Cadiz Court house will cost $11,350 and a tax of ten cents on the hundred dollars will be levied on the property in the county to pay it.

The Tempus Bonum club met last Friday evening at the residence of Mr. W. W. Ware. The next meeting will be at Mr. H. A. Phelps' next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. An unusually interesting programme has been arranged and a full attendance of the membership is desired.

Geo. E. Cooper & Co., of Nashville, had the contract for making and putting up the cornice on Howe's new building. It is the handsomest and most elaborately finished front in the city, and the cornice is a credit to the gentlemen who designed and put it up. Mr. M. F. Ramsey, one of the firm, did the work.

Mr. Pike has fitted up a dining room in the rear of the hallway in the European Hotel, and the dining room will hereafter be entirely separated from the billiard room, which it has heretofore adjoined. Mr. Pike, the genial landlord, is now prepared to entertain the public, ladies as well as gentlemen, and it affords us pleasure to note that his business is constantly increasing.

The Madisonville Times gave a very readable account of the jail delivery there on the night of the 10th inst. The jail was thought to be one of the best in the State, but the ingenuity of one of the prisoners, enabled him with burglars' implements, to work his way out and liberate his companions. Five prisoners escaped as follows: John Stroud and Wm. Barrentine, of Greenville, and Geo. Killough, of Hopkins county, all white, for murder; and Monroe Grider and Chas. Boggess, colored, in jail for larceny. None of them have been captured.

Anthony Gray, the negro idiot whose grotesque appearance and monkey-like actions, have long been familar to the people of this city, died last week of consumption. He was almost inhuman in appearance and could talk only in a guttural, inarticulate manner. He was in the habit of carrying the case of an old brass watch, and when asked the time would invariably reply, "Two clock and half," no matter what time in the the day it was. Often have we seen him in a crowd of small boys on Sunday afternoons, amusing them by dancing or throwing back his head and opening his mouth, which extended from ear to ear and made him look more like an ape or monkey than a human being. He was harmless and good natured and was never happier than when called upon to dance or "preach," for the amusement of a crowd.

Trigg county is overrun with candidates. To say nothing of the state candidates that occasionally invade her territory, she has now within her borders one candidate for the Senate, three for the Legislature, four for county Judge and three for county Attorney. Col R. A. Burnett is a candidate for the Senate and is opposed by W. L. Weathers, of Calloway, the present Senator, and Chas. Webb, of Livingston. The candidates for Representative are C. H. Major, of Canton, Jahez Bingham, of Wallonia, and Dr. J. W. Johnson, of Golden Pond. Dr. J. W. Cullum, of Montgomery, withdrew last week. For county Judge H. B. Wayland, Robt. Crenshaw, and J. E. Kelly, of Cadiz, and W. G. Blain, of Roaring Springs, are willing to serve the people, while Capt. Jno. C. Dabney, Maj. Mat. McKinney, editor of the Telephone, and Mr. Joiner, are all anxious to be chosen county Attorney.

Last Saturday we were invited by Mr. W. E. Fouiks to examine his improved Combination Wire and Slat Fence. His factory for making this fence is located near Orr & Co's Planing Mill. The fence is literally woven, the wire constituting the warp, and the slats the filling. The machine or fence loom is a marvel and the curious process of fence-weaving would repay any one for the trouble of walking up there. The fence itself is the strongest made, its capacity being 8,000 lbs. The fence consists of five double cables of galvanized steel wire and seasoned white oak slats. Space between the slats, 2½ inches, and they are interwoven so tightly as to prevent their ever being lost out. It is the best fence for farm use for several reasons. It is the strongest; it is the cheapest; it is the most durable. Such a timber economizer cannot fail to strike the farmer

MURDER AT BEVERLY.

Ben Cayce Kills Peter Hardy.

It has often been remarked that Circuit Court never meets in Christian county, without somebody being murdered while it is in session. We have noticed this for several years and it is an exceptional case when court meets and adjourns without a murder in the county. This term the usual programme has been carried out, the victim being a colored man named Peter Hardy, and the slayer being another negro named Ben Cayce.

On last Saturday night, the 17th, a frolic was given at the residence of Mrs. Carter, near Beverly, about six miles from town. Among the darkies present were Pete Hardy and Ben Cayce. The former lived at Esq. T. H. Majors' and the latter at Mr. Geo. Cayce's. The two got into an altercation about a woman and had some hot words. One word brought on another until Cayce called Hardy a s—n of a b—. Hardy went up to him and was arguing with him and trying to make him take it back, when Cayce drew a pistol and shot him in the breast, killing him almost instantly. Hardy was unarmed and Cayce's action can be regarded only as a brutal murder, as his victim was making no demonstrations of violence.

An inquest was held Sunday and the jury simply returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death from a pistol shot fired by Ben Cayce. Cayce came to town Sunday morning and was promptly arrested by Policemen Biggerstaff and Wadlington and taken to jail. The grand jury, which is in session, will act upon his case at once. The outlook for him is gloomy in the light of the facts now at hand. Both Hardy and Cayce were big strapping fellows about 30 years old. Hardy leaves a wife and three small children. Cayce will probably be held without bail until the next term of court.

Two splendid specimens of Crayon work are on exhibition at Dr. Armistead's drug store. The subjects are "The Deluge," by Miss Annie Ware, and "Bavaria," by Miss Ennice Fuqua. They both give evidence of decided artistic talent on the part of the authors, and would richly repay a visit thither to see them.

There will be an entertainment for the benefit of Co. D, at the Opera House on Friday, March 30. The exercises will consist of a competitive drill between the young ladies' broom brigade and a picked squad from Co. D, interspersed with choice selections of music. The exercise will be very interesting and should draw a packed house.

THE SMALLPOX.

The third week's report in regard to the smallpox, shows two new cases and two deaths. The negro boy Charley Edwards who came in on the train from Henderson March 9th, died on the night of the 17th. He was taken outside of the city limits, to a vacant house beyond the fair grounds and it will be remembered that the house was burned down a night or two afterwards while his guard John Boales was asleep and that Edwards was gotten out just as the roof fell in. He was put in another cabin near by and Peter Simpson, a competent nurse, put with him, but he continued to grow worse until Saturday night when he died. This was the second death, both cases being imported from Evansville. The house where Edwards died is outside of the city and is now used as a pest house. It was to be hoped that there would be no other cases to report, but a case was developed in the city last Saturday morning, being the first local case. It will be remembered that the boy Lee Stoner, who was the first to die with the disease, was taken to the cabin of his mother on Stite's Hill where he died a week later.

There were a number of persons in the cabin at the time. All but two women and three or four children got out at once. Of those who remained, only one, a woman named Amanda Stoner, the mother of the boy who first died, was not vaccinated. She persistently refused, although she staid with her son till he died on the 8th inst. On the night of the 16th she took the disease and grew rapidly worse till yesterday morning, the 19th, when she died. This was the first local case and was in the house on Stites' Hill, where the first case was. This then makes a total of three deaths so far—Lee Stoner imported case, the 8th; Chas. Edwards, imported, the 16th; Amanda Stoner, local, the 19th.

In addition to these there is now one other well developed case to report. Among the occupants of the house on Stites' Hill when Lee Stoner was first taken there, was a negro girl named Mildred McGaughey. She left as soon as he came and was at once vaccinated. She went to the southern part of the county, and a few days since she broke out with the disease. On Sunday she was brought to the suburbs of the city and turned loose. She came into town with face broken out, lips swollen and eyes inflamed, and after walking around the streets some time was arrested and taken to the pest house outside the city limits, where Edwards died. She is now there under medical treatment. These are the facts up to the present writing. We have concealed nothing and shall continue to give the truth in regard to the disease in the city. While we do not believe there is cause for alarm, it is well for caution to be exercised, and all who have not been vaccinated should be at once. The disease is now fully under control and every precaution is taken to prevent its spreading.

The quarantine on the railroad is still maintained and the police deserve especial praise for the efficient manner in which they are performing the onerous duty assigned them. They meet every freight and passenger train at the city limits and examine it thoroughly before permitting it to enter the city.

We warn people at a distance not to believe exaggerated stories of the disease in the city. We will give the true facts and report every case. We again assure the people that there is no danger in coming to town as the pest house is located outside of the city limits and that is only one sporadic case in it.

The Height of Folly.

To wait until you are in bed with disease you may not get over for months, is the height of folly, when you might be easily cured during the early symptoms by Parker's Ginger Tonic. We have known sickly families made the healthiest by a timely use of this pure medicine.—Observer.

Opera House.

In spite of the very disagreeable weather a large and fashionable audience assembled at the opera house last evening to witness the performance of the "Pearl of Savoy," by the charming little artiste, Miss Julia A. Hunt and her company. Miss Hunt is a great favorite in Hopkinsville. Her first appearance on the stage was the signal for a perfect storm of applause, which must have proved highly gratifying to the lady, testifying as it did to the esteem in which she is held. Miss Hunt has already been seen in the role of "Marie" in this city, but she appeared to a better advantage on this occasion than we have ever seen her. Her rendition of the part was perfect from first to last and she was the heroine she portrayed, and she throughly captivated her audience by her acting and singing. Of the company supporting Miss Hunt, we can speak in terms of the highest praise.

It is the most complete and evenly balanced Dramatic organization that has been seen here for a long time and, as a natual result, they give a finished and delightful performance. Mr. Wm. Lloyd, the leading man of the company, is a capital actor and gave a remarkably vigorous performance in the as Lonstalot, "Marie's" Father, receiving rounds of applause for his rendition of the "Curse scene." Mr. W. J. Dixon as "Arthur," was particularly good in the scenes with Marie, while Mr. Edwin F. Gardner as "Pierrot," fairly convulsed the house with laughter. Miss Adele Clark, as "Margaret," the mother of Marie invested the part with unusual interest. "Chouchou" as betrayed by Miss Ethel Tucker, was one of the best bits of acting, ever seen on our stage. This young lady (who has never been seen here before,) at once established herself a favorite, and as she has beauty and undoubted talent we predict for her a brilliant future. Miss Fanny Sinclair, Violet Brandt and Messrs. Simon Kennicon and Harry Jamison acquitted themselves creditably.

This evening will be presented for the first time in Hopkinsville the beautiful romantic drama, entitled, "Florinel," by Sidney Rosenfield, Esq. written for Miss Hunt, and presented by her at Abbey's Park Theater, New York City, for fifty nights to crowded and enthusiastic audiences. Since then Miss Hunt has produced "Florinel" in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, and all the principal cities in the United States and Canada, and has achieved a phenominal success. The critic of the N. Y. Herald said: "She interpreted her part with a naturalness that could only have resulted from a careful study and a thorough merging of herself in her character." Don't fail to attend to-night. Prices as usual.

Mr. Geo. E. Gary, who has been in charge of the business and soliciting departments of the South Kentuckian for more than two years will leave for Bowling Green to-morrow to take charge of the branch lumber establishment of M. C. & J. K. Forbes. Mr. Gary is a young gentleman of strict business integrity, excellent qualifications, unimpeachable moral worth and thoroughly reliable and trustworthy in all things. We heartily commend him to the people of Bowling Green as in every way worthy of their fullest confidence. He has our best wishes for a full measure of success in his new home.

NOTICE.

Hopkinsville Building and Loan Association

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of said Association, held at its office in the city of Hopkinsville, Ky., on the 2nd day of March, 1883, it was unanimously resolved that the articles of Incorporation of the said Association be amended as hereinafter stated, which proposed amendment was submitted to the Stockholders thereof and the same having been consented to by a majority of the whole, record thereof has been duly made. Now this is to give notice that the said Articles of Incorporation have been amended as follows: Art. III. The capital stock of the Association shall be $500,000, which shall be divided into five thousand shares of $100, each. The shares of the capital stock may be divided and issued in consecutive series as the Board of managers may direct, but no series shall contain more than five hundred shares and no member of the Association shall have more than twenty five shares in any series,

The Board of managers shall semi-annually ascertain the withdrawal value of each share of stock in the several series.

Which being approved by the board on motion it was resolved unanimously that the articles of Incorporation be amended by striking out the said 3d article and the amendment there to and inserting in lieu thereof the said section proposed above.

And yet it is said that cholera among fowls depresses the market.—[Arkansaw Traveler.

The President's Illness.

Washington, March 10.—President Arthur has been troubled with insomnia for several nights, and his physicians are exceedingly anxious about his condition. He is the victim of Bright's disease of the kidneys, and his convival habits have greatly aggravated his malady. The utmost care is taken to conceal his real condition, but it is certain that he is suffering intense bodily pain, and has quite lost his nerve. In his despondency he declares that he is going to die, and to-day implored his sister Mrs. McElroy, not to leave him as she coutemplated doing, next week. He has said repeatedly during the past fortnight that he did not expect to live out the year, and when Mr. Edmunds was chosen President of the Senate, he remarked to a friend: "I'm glad of that. Edmunds will finish out my term with distinction."

It is a curious fact that Edmunds was sworn in President pro tem. I am assured by an old attache of the clerk's office of the Senate that no other President pro tem, has ever taken oath on taking his seat, the oath of a Senator having been deemed sufficient heretofore. The inference is that Edmunds has found some law by which the taking of this special oath makes him Vice-President de facto, so that if Arthur and he should both die, the Senate might elect another President pro tem., who would cut out the Democratic Speaker of the next House from the succession.

A Jilted Lover's Revenge.

[All California;]

An awful case of the consequence of refusing a young man's honorable love is reported on the West side. A really nice young man fell in love with a handsome girl, the only daughter of a handsome and well preserved widow of thirty-eight and offered her marriage. She ridiculed him because he was thirty, and said he was old enough to be her father and so on, and with her taunts goaded him to such a pitch of frenzy that he swore he would be fearfully revenged. Accordingly he proposed to and married the wretched girl's mother.

Now that wretched girl has to wear stout leather boots two sizes too large for her, and go to bed at 9 p. m. and eschew the theater, chocolate caramels ice-cream, and in fact everything else that makes one's life worth living for. Her step father's nominal object being that when she grows up she may be as splendidly matured a woman as her mother, the compliment implied in this inducing the mother to second him enthusiastically.

When a young man comes round to see the wretched girl her step father bounces him down the front steps, throws his hat after him, and tells the wretched girl that the young man is not a fit companion for her, and that he is as felicitous for her future as he would be for that of his own child and altogether in the kindest manner possible he makes that wretched girl even wish she were dead as many as a hundred times a day.

Let all other beautiful girls who are often tempted to refuse the matrimonial offer of eligible young man be warned by her unhappy fate.

If Nearly Dead

after taking some highly puffed up stuff, with long testimonials, turn to Hop Bitters, and have no fear of any Kidney or Urinary Troubles, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Liver Complaint. These diseases cannot resist the curative power of Hop Bitters; besides it is the best family medicine on earth.

The stylographic pen is one of the necessaries of our modern civilization, if Hood's song had been "Dip, dip, dip," instead of "Stitch, stitch stitch," it would have lost its text at the hands of Mr. Livermore, who has given his age this perfection of pen, penholder, and case, and ink, all in one, handsome, and always at hand and ready for use. The inventor has put some new improvements into it, and now what remains but for every scribe and letter writer to find it on his desk. Ink, filler and cleaner, all go with it. And to crown all, the price has been reduced to $2. Send that amount to the sole agent, Mr. Louis E. Dunlap, 590 Washington St. Boston, Mass., and the return mail will bring you this most perfect pen.—Contributor, Boston, Mass.

Example is better than precept. It is well known that dyspepsia, bilious attacks, headache and many other ills can only be cured by removing their cause. Kidney-Wort has been proved to be the most effectual remedy for these, and for habitual costiveness, which so afflicts millions of the American people.

Musical.

We will send to any person who will give us the names and address of five of their musical friends having pianos or organs, and ten cents in change or postage stamps, a copy of three new and beautiful song entitled "Elons Death Songs," by the popular author, P. G. Hull. Address

Peterson's Magazine for April is already on our table, as welcome as the flowers of Spring, and quite as fresh and beautiful. The embellishments as usual, are very fine, particularly the steel-plate, 'A Modern Cinderella' the colored steel fashion-plate; and the colored pattern in crewels a bunch of dog-daises. But the specialty of the number is its stories, which, though always superior in 'Peterson,' are better this month than ever. Mr. Benedict's novelet. "A Professional Beauty," is alone worth the subscription price. Then there is one of "Josiah Allen's wife's" humorous sketches. "In Kittery," by the author of "The Second Life," is also such as one rarely reads. The illustrated story, "My First Ball-Dress," is charmingly told; and so is the romantic "Moderu Cinderella." All the Spring fashions are in advance, and the fashion cuts, worktable cuts, etc., etc., are without number. No lady should be without this magazine. It is not too late to subcribe for 1883, as all the back numbers can be supplied, if desired. The price is but two dollars, and to clubs it is much cheaper. Specimens are sent, gratis, to those wishing to get up clubs, and handsome premiums are given for getting them up subscribers at once. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Difficult Problem Solved.

The desire for stimulants is becoming a monstrous evil and how to overcome it is serious question with reformers. Parker's Ginger Tonic fairly solves the difficult problem. Ragland's Lightning Relief,

The Greatest and Quickest Pain Destroyer IN THE WORLD.

This medicine is a sure cure for Rheumatism. It never fails to relieve Neuralgia. It will cure tooth and ear ache in a few minutes. For Frost bites it has no equal. Will relieve any kind of colic in short time. It will dispel sick or nervous headache with a single application; for swollen joints, glands or muscles it is unequaled. As an external remedy and pain killer Ragland's Lightning Relief is the surest and quickest of all remedies.

EDWARD WILDER'S

Never fails to cure Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Colic and Flux. It will Cure Costiveness. It is a safe Anti-bilious Alterative and Mild and Delightful Invigorant for Delicate Women, a powerful recuperant after the debilitated and reduced by sickness, an excellent appetizer, gives tone to the digestive organs, prevents Malaria, braces up the system, strengthens the portal circulation and clears the whole animal economy from the seeds of disease. The slightest attack of fever may be a prelude to the worst, and the remedy that would conquer it whilst it is yet in its commencement, may be of no value when it is at its full development. Particularly is this the case with persons around whom the pestiferous miasmas of Malaria clings in the form of Dumb Chills, Bone Ague, Painful Spleen, and Weak Stomach.

For the Cure of all the above Diseases this preparation stands unrivaled, and its good and permanent effects are attested by thousands, and it is recommended alike by the ablest medical men and the ministry.

Speaking of the bearing capacity of bridges, reminds us that none of them can equal the bridge of a fiddle in standing strains.—Breckenridge News.

"My Husband's Secret" was written by a lady. It isn't the first instance on record of a lady giving her husband's secrets away to the public. —[Cincinnati Saturday Night.

It's getting around to that season of the year when the small boy, who can't lift a spade full of dirt in the garden will turn up a ten acre lot hunting for fishbait.—[The Drummer.

The Danville Tribune says that it sat within six feet of Mrs. Langtry for three hours. That's a self evident bald headed lie. The lady is alive and in good health.—Sunday Argus.

They say that Gov. Bate, of Tennessee, was once a steamboat clerk. They might also remark that he once commanded one of the best divisions in the Confederate Army.—Sunday Argus.

The Courier-Journal of Monday says "Senator Tabor has $10,000,000 and a bran-new wife." He may have that amount of money, but he has got a bran-new wife; he's got a second-hand wife.—State Journal.

"Thirty-five Ways of Popping the Question," is the title of a book just out. It will not become popular with the young ladies, all of whom are satisfied with the one good old way that captured their mothers.—Breckenridge News.

Jones asked his wife; "Why is a husband like dough?" He expected she would give it up, and he was going to tell her it was because a woman needed him: but she said it was because he was hard to get off her hands. —Hickman Courier.

"Family Jars For Sale Here!" says a sign in front of a Newport grocery. As about nine-tenths of families here now have more family jars than is good for them, we reckon that grocer must sell only to newly married people.—State Journal.

The world worships at Beauty's Shrine, and she is fairer than the fairest flower that blushes beneath the shimmer of all the stars in Heaven.—Danville Tribune.

"How many chickens must I kill tomorrow?" asked a grocer clerk of the proprietor

The President's Illness.

Washington, March 10.—President Arthur has been troubled with insomnia for several nights, and his physicians are exceedingly anxious about his condition. He is the victim of Bright's disease of the kidneys, and his convival habits have greatly aggravated his malady. The utmost care is taken to conceal his real condition, but it is certain that he is suffering intense bodily pain, and has quite lost his nerve. In his despondency he declares that he is going to die, and to-day implored his sister Mrs. McElroy, not to leave him as she contemplated doing, next week. He has said repeatedly during the past fortnight that he did not expect to live out the year, and when Mr. Edmunds was chosen President of the Senate, he remarked to a friend: "I'm glad of that. Edmunds will finish out my term with distinction."

It is a curious fact that Edmunds was sworn in President pro tem. I am assured by an old attache of the clerk's office of the Senate that no other President pro tem, has ever taken oath on taking his seat, the oath of a Senator having been deemed sufficient heretofore. The inference is that Edmunds has found some law by which the taking of this special oath makes him Vice-President de facto, so that if Arthur and he should both die, the Senate might elect another President pro tem., who would cut out the Democratic Speaker of the next House from the succession.

A Jilted Lover's Revenge.

[Alt California;]

An awful case of the consequence of refusing a young man's honorable love is reported on the West side. A really nice young man fell in love with a handsome girl, the only daughter of a handsome and well preserved widow of thirty-eight and offered her marriage. She ridiculed him because he was thirty, and said he was old enough to be her father and so on, and with her taunts goaded him to such a pitch of frenzy that he swore he would be fearfully revenged. Accordingly he proposed to and married the wretched girl's mother.

Now that wretched girl has to wear stout leather boots two sizes too large for her, and go to bed at 9 p. m. and eschew the theater, chocolate caramels ice-cream, and in fact everything else that makes one's life worth living for. Her step father's nominal object being that when she grows up she may be as splendidly matured a woman as her mother, the compliment implied in this inducing the mother to second him enthusiastically.

When a young man comes round to see the wretched girl her step father bounces him down the front steps, throws his hat after him, and tells the wretched girl that the young man is not a fit companion for her, and that he is as felicitious for her future as he would be for that of his own child and altogether in the kindest manner possible he makes that wretched girl even wish she were dead as many as a hundred times a day.

Let all other beautiful girls who are often tempted to refuse the matrimonial offer of eligible young man be warned by her unhappy. fate.

If Nearly Dead

after taking some highly puffed up stuff, with long testimonials, turn to Hop Bitters, and have no fear of any Kidney or Urinary Troubles, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Liver Complaint. These diseases cannot resist the curative power of Hop Bitters; besides it is the best family medicine on earth.

The stylographic pen is one of the necessaries of our modern civilization, if Hood's song had been "Dip, dip, dip," instead of "Stitch, stitch stitch," it would have lost its text at the hands of Mr. Livermore, who has given his age this perfection of pen, penholder, and case, and ink, all in one, handsome, and always at hand and ready for use. The inventor has put some new improvements into it, and now what remains but for every scribe and letter writer to find it on his desk. Ink, filler and cleaner, all go with it. And to crown all, the price has been reduced to $2. Send that amount to the sole agent, Mr. Louis E. Dunlap, 590 Washington St. Boston, Mass., and the return mail will bring you this most perfect pen. —Contributor, Boston, Mass.

"Example is better than precept. It is well known that dyspepsia, bilious attacks, headache and many other ills can only be cured by removing their cause. Kidney-Wort has been proved to be the most effectual remedy for these, and for habitual costiveness, which so afflicts millions of the American people.

Musical.

Peterson's Magazine for April is already on our table, as welcome as the flowers of Spring, and quite as fresh and beautiful. The embellishments as usual, are very fine, particularly the steel-plate, 'A Modern Cinderella' the colored steel fashion-plate; and the colored pattern in crewels a bunch of dog-daises. But the specialty of the number is its stories, which, though always superior in 'Peterson,' are better this month than ever. Mr. Benedict's novelet. "A Professional Beauty," is alone worth the subscription price. Then there is one of "Josiah Allen's wife's" humorous sketches. "In Kittery," by the author of "The Second Life," is also such as one rarely reads. The illustrated story, "My First Ball-Dress," is charmingly told; and so is the romantic "Moderu Cinderella." All the Spring fashions are in advance, and the fashion cuts, work-table cuts, etc., etc., are without number. No lady should be without this magazine. It is not too late to subcribe for 1883, as all the back numbers can be supplied, if desired. The price is but two dollars, and to clubs it is much cheaper. Specimens are sent, gratis, to those wishing to get up clubs, and handsome premiums are given for getting them up subscribers at once. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Difficult Problem Solved.

The desire for stimulants is becoming a monstrous evil and how to overcome it is serious question with reformers. Parker's Ginger Tonic fairly solves the difficult problem. It invigorates body and mind without intoxicating, and has brought health and happiness to many desolate homes.—Enquirer. See other column.

Never fails to cure Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Colic and Flux. It will Cure Costiveness. It is a safe Anti-bilious Alterative a[illegible] and Delightful invigorant for Delicate Women, a powerful recuperant after to[illegible] debilitated and reduced by sickness, an excellent appetizer, gives tone to the digestive organs, prevents Malaria, braces up the system, strengthens the portal circulation and clears the whole animal economy from the seeds of disease. The slightest attack of fever may be a prelude to the worst, and the remedy that would conquer it whilst it is yet in its commencement, may be of no value when it is at its full development. Particularly is this the case with persons around whom the pestiferous influence of Malaria clings in the form of Dumb Chills, Brow Ague, Painful Spleen, and Weak Stomach.

For the Cure of all the above Diseases this preparation stands unrivaled, and its good and permanent effects are attested by thousands, and it is recommended alike by the ablest medical men and the ministry.
